

Day 1

Read: Psalm 139:1-24

Welcome to the Pursuit of Purpose daily devotions, and good on you for deciding that you are going to live your life on purpose! That it will not simply be about which circumstances come your way, and you reacting to them. You are deciding you will be proactive in working with our great Father's eternal purposes for your life. This week, we are going to set those up, so that we can ensure we aren't rushing off hastily, into what we think is our "glorious God appointed future!" without considering God first. That would be like putting together a flat pack without looking at the instructions...wait...more like setting up your phone without reading the manual...wait...ok we do both those things all the time. It's more like starting construction on a 4 lane bridge with a plan formed by someone who has never studied engineering, and didn't even do Design and Technology as an elective in year 8! Read through these scriptures slowly and thoughtfully. (Or head here for the contemplative prayer).

Psalm 147:5 //Job 37:16//Psalm 50:11//Revelation 1:8
God you are above all, you are in all, you are through all, you hold it all together. Help me to remember how Majestic you are, how Mighty, how Magnificent, how Magnanimous. You are perfect in all of Your ways. I submit myself to You at the outset of pursuing my purpose, and my desire is that I would simply do and be all that you want me to do and be. In Jesus' name, Amen
